

MAYOR MAY TAKE AX FROM UNDER

Park Superintendent Arouses Protest by Chopping Down Trees.

TO SAVE WEEPING WILLOW

EMPLOYEES OF CITY AND COUNTY BUILDING ARE ACTIVE.

Many complaints have been received by Mayor John S. Bransford regarding what is termed the "ruthless destruction of shade trees" in Liberty park and on the grounds of the city and county buildings. The chopping of trees has been done under orders from Nicholas Byhoever, superintendent of parks, and many more are due to fall.

According to plans of the superintendent of parks, the double row of evergreen trees standing on either side of the walk leading to the city and county building from Fourth South and State streets are to be felled, with the view of planting linden trees in their place. Mr. Byhoever has declared that he intends to make this a shady lane during the summer time and believes the linden trees are the best. The evergreen trees have stood along the walk and in other parts of the grounds for many years and have proved one of the attractive features of the grounds. Representations which have been made to the mayor are that a number of fine shade trees have been chopped down in Liberty park because they were killing the lawns, or because the trees were too thick. But the mayor declares the trees cannot be too thick, and he may take the matter up with the city board of park commissioners to stop the further cutting of the trees.

Employees in the city and county building who have been there long enough to have a sort of proprietary interest in the building and grounds have been up in arms since a fine weeping willow was cut down a few days ago. The tree had stood on the joint building grounds even before the building was completed and was the finest tree on the grounds. It was admired by the employees in the building, as well as citizens and visitors. It was the best shade tree on the grounds and was one of the most beautiful trees in the city. But the superintendent of parks said it was killing the lawn and was ruining the lawn, so employees of the park department felled the willow.

Protesting citizens say there are not too many trees in the city, and that instead of chopping down what are now standing, the park department would help the city in planting more trees. Since the intention of the superintendent of parks is to chop down the willow, down the evergreens, the city and county building yard, the protests have increased, and Mayor Bransford will probably take a hand in the matter.

SORENSEN MUST MOVE TO HOLD SCHOOL JOB

"Back to Forest Dale or Resign" Is Ultimatum of Commissioners.

C. M. Sorensen and others, of the Granite district school board were before the county commissioners yesterday in an effort to elucidate problems of the district. Sorensen and D. W. Moffat have been disqualifying as members of the school board, as Moffat moved to Murray and Sorensen lives in Sugar House, which is now a part of Salt Lake. Moffat has sent in his resignation to the commissioners and his successor will be appointed within a short time.

The commissioners gave Mr. Sorensen until next Monday to move out of Salt Lake and back to Forest Dale, or to resign as a member of the board. It is probable that the two new members of the board will be appointed by the commissioners next Monday. Mr. Sorensen told the commissioners he intended to move into Forest Dale at once, in which event he will remain as a member of the Granite school board.

The site for the Granite high school at Fifth East and Fourteenth South street was purchased on March 21, 1909, by the school board, for $3,000. Amos S. Gabbott, chairman of the school board, said yesterday that members of the board believed they were acting in accordance with the desires of the taxpayers of the district in choosing the Fifth East site. He said that property on State street near Fourteenth South is held at too high a figure and that it would take all of the $3,000 held by the school board to buy any kind of a site there. The board now has 14 acres in the new site, which is across the street from the present Granite high school. "I believe it would be to the interest of the citizens of the west side of the river to have the school at Fifth East and Fourteenth South, instead of at State street," said Mr. Gabbott yesterday. "It is only a question of time when the street car company will have to build a line on Fourteenth South street, or some other street, for a cross-country line to Wandermere. Besides this, it will not be long before another high school will have to be erected on the west side of the river, and if the present school were placed on State street we would have to put the new one at Garfield. We believe we are acting for the best interests of the Granite district in selecting the Fifth East site."

Two Plans For Saving

It is a matter of wisdom and good judgment to deposit money where it will grow by reason of interest additions, as is shown by the following two plans:

One dollar saved each week and, in the old fashioned way, hidden in your home or elsewhere so that it will earn no interest, will amount to $1,040 in twenty years.

One dollar saved each week and deposited with this institution where it will earn 4 percent compound interest, will at the end of twenty years amount to $1,618.60, having during this time earned nearly six hundred dollars interest.

Which of these plans do you follow? Why welcome deposits from one dollar upwards.

EMMA GOLDMAN IS AN ANARCHIST

She Speaks at Eastman's Hall, Denouncing Church and King of Spain.

FERRER'S DEATH THEME

REFERS TO FRANCE AS CRADLE OF LIBERTY IN WORLD.

Emma Goldman led an audience who subscribed to her own beliefs at Eastman's hall last night through the tortuous metaphorical pathway of anarchy, free love and undogmatic doctrines which she is pleased to call the modern school of thought. She upbraided everybody from King Alfonso of Spain to the humblest priest of the Catholic church. She blamed them for the execution of Francisco Ferrer in the city of Barcelona, Spain, eight months ago.

While this firm-jawed woman was in the frenzy of her denunciations she was frequently interrupted by cries from the crowd, "You're all right, Emma!"

In the course of her address she compared Ferrer to Jesus Christ and said that Ferrer died for a far greater cause than the Son of God. She denounced the government of the United States and said that its police and soldiers were legalized murderers.

"What right has either church or state to interfere with the relations of men and women," declared the speaker. Miss Goldman did not follow up this line of expression. She simply injected it into her lecture, and although there were many men in the audience at whose side sat their wives and children, the declaration was applauded.

She referred to France as the cradle of liberty and asserted that it was in that country that man first proclaimed the right of free speech and dared say that his soul was his own. She denounced the Catholic church most vehemently and said that for centuries it had stood in the way of progress and that the Vatican had hoodwinked the world into conceptions which were obsolete.

Miss Goldman discussed the work of Ferrer as the apostle of the so-called modern school. She dwelt upon his early career, his trials and his persistence in standing for a line of thought which is vastly removed from the general acceptance that there is a God and that all men are not born with evil intent.

Teachings of Ferrer.

"Ferrer did not teach the children that there is a God," said Miss Goldman. "Why should he teach them something which he did not believe. Ferrer taught the children that it is wrong for them to bear false witness against their neighbor; he taught them that it is wrong for government to force a man into slavery; that they should shoot down their fellow man; he taught them that it is their privilege to bask in the sunshine that nature gave them, and to be happy in the hope that there would be emancipation of mankind."

Miss Goldman was introduced by the Rev. Thurston Brown of the Unitarian church. Those who expected to see an elderly woman in Miss Goldman were mistaken. While she does not glow with youthfulness she is far from having passed that stage of life at which comeliness departs. She is a rather stout woman. When she took the stage she looked as if she were a sort of professional swagman and in a manner not only to indicate that she had the courage of her own convictions, but that she had the courage of the convictions of others.

She speaks out plainly and firmly. In her speech can be detected the occasional transposition of words characteristic of the Russian Jew. While she speaks grammatically, she cannot wholly hide evidences of the race to which she belongs.

Miss Goldman does not make climaxes in her tirade that the audience may applaud. She is clever enough to make her remarks continuous and does not tarry for the glad hand. For a woman she is a bold figure and one whose fiery words carry conviction to those susceptible to her teachings.

SPEND HALF MILLION IN RECLAIMING LAND

Eastern Capitalists Through Salt Lake Will Develop a Big Tract.

Approved plats from the state land board have been filed with the United States land office here, and have been forwarded to Washington for segregation under the Carey act, by which 10,000 acres of new arid land will be made productive. The project is filed in the name of D. B. Mackintosh, acting for eastern interests.

The land to be irrigated is 11 miles west of Oasis and will be handled by the Richards Irrigation company, organized some time ago. It is stated that the men interested in the scheme will spend at least half a million dollars in reclaiming the land and adding more fertile lands to the area of the state.

The description of the lands applied for is as follows: All of sections 19, 20, 30 and 31, township 17 south, range 8 west.

Southwest quarter of southeast quarter of section 20, township 17 south, range 8 west.

South half of the northwest quarter of section 20, township 17 south, range 8 west.

South half of the southeast quarter, lot 4, and the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section 18, township 17 south, range 8 west.

All of sections 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24, 25 and 26, in township 17 south, range 9 west.

FINDS HOSPITAL CORPS IN EXCELLENT SHAPE

Every member of the hospital corps of the National Guard of Utah was present last night at the annual government inspection at the guard armory and the officers and men of the corps were highly complimented upon their appearance and the condition of the equipment. Major Manley, surgeon at Fort Douglas, conducted the inspection and declared himself highly pleased with the guardsmen. With 100 per cent present for inspection and the property in first-class condition, the hospital corps is certain to be one of the leading organizations of the guard on the government inspection for 1910. There were seven privates and three non-commissioned officers present, besides Captain J. F. Sharp, Major J. O. Evans and Colonel W. R. Tisdale.

Emma Goldman Not a Dangerous Woman

EMMA GOLDMAN. Woman's estimate of anarchist is that she is terribly in earnest.

BY A WOMAN.

THAT it is absurd to consider Emma Goldman a dangerous woman is the first impression one receives in a talk with her. High priestess of anarchy she may be, and apostle of free love she may be, but it is nevertheless true that she is a highly intellectual woman with considerable insight into human nature and what appears to be a real love for humanity. If she has any other motive than a desire to work for progress and enlightenment it is not apparent.

It is not necessary to agree with Emma Goldman in order to acquire a respect for her intelligence and sincerity. She is a rational thinking woman with a right to hold the most radical beliefs, and it will do the world no harm to listen to them. It is impossible to imagine that she would try to force these beliefs to the extent of using violent measures.

Her opinions are stated with the positiveness of a true believer. She has the sort of eloquence and magnetism that comes from earnest thought and sincere conviction. Emma Goldman is a force that must be considered because she combines enthusiasm for a cause with realistic ideas.

Personally the little woman is not an object of terror. She is the intellectual sort that does not care for appearances, so she is badly dressed and lacks distinction of manner. That is partly Russian temperament, and partly because she thinks there are more important things than personal adornment. And yet she claims to appreciate beauty.

Beauty of a sort she has. It lies in a good physique, in clear eyes and clean complexion as of one who lives much out-of-doors. Her forceful speech and expressive gestures are the symbols of a full and complete nature. She is strong and fearless and apparently without nerves, a healthy human creature with the limitations of the woman who scorns feminine graces and weaknesses.

MASTER PRINTERS MEET

Owners of Various Shops Decide to Organize an Association.

About twenty-four master printers, representing as many printing establishments in Salt Lake, assembled last night at the Commercial club and formed a temporary organization, to be known as the Master Printers' Association of Salt Lake. W. G. Romney was elected president and L. C. Shaw, Jr., secretary.

There was some discussion over the question of asking the owners of linotypes and wholesale paper dealers to join the association, and it was finally decided to do so. The association will meet again next Tuesday night, when a permanent organization will be formed. The president was empowered to name a committee to formulate a social way, to create a better understanding among them and to raise the standard of the printing trade.

The aims and objects of the new association, as explained by President Romney, are to bring the master printers of this city into closer touch, to get the members to meet occasionally in a social way, to create a better understanding among them and to raise the standard of the printing trade.

Women, according to Emma Goldman, are limited, narrow-minded and bigoted. They are also devoted, self-sacrificing and capable of as high a state of enlightenment as men. Their narrow-mindedness and bigotry come from years of ignorance and slavery. With the same opportunities for education and development they will be men's equals.

In Emma Goldman is seen an example of what a woman can do to emancipate herself and cultivate her own powers. Four years of school life, between the years of seven and eleven, were all the regular schooling Miss Goldman ever had. Then she worked and studied, taking advantage of every opportunity to acquire knowledge. She thought much, talked with people of intelligence who could help her to think and all her life she has been a voracious reader. She says that life has been her college and that she has taken her degree in the understanding of human nature.

As a trained nurse in New York city Miss Goldman sought experiences among outcasts and degraded types. One incident which she has not forgotten told is that of a fallen woman who was her patient when suffering from the results of the morphine habit. Miss Goldman accepted this case as she would any other, not in the Philistine manner but with sympathy and understanding.

This creature was of the "Zaza" or "Camille" type, intellectual, artistic and cultivated. In the two years she was in Miss Goldman's care she improved physically and came to an understanding of herself that produced a moral reformation. Miss Goldman reverts with pride to the fact that she is a self-made woman. She has done more than other women do to advance themselves in discouraging circumstances and environment. In the same way she is now devoting herself to the education of the race. It may be pride and it may be that she wants a public career and excitement. But it looks like genuine devotion to a cause in which she believes.

HONOR AARON FLORENCE

Theatre Employees Present Him With Loving Cup on Eve of Departure.

The stage of the Shubert theatre was the scene of an elaborate social function last evening in honor of Aaron Florence, who has been assisting his brother, Max, for a year past in the latter's theatrical enterprises. Aaron Florence is about to go to Montreal. The affair was in the nature of a surprise party in which nearly one hundred young people, all connected with the various theatres controlled by the Florence company, participated. Mrs. Conrad, Dave Farquhar, Harry Wolff and Dave Archer had the matter of arrangements and decorations in hand.

The stage was set in a beautiful summer garden scene. A table was set, around which the ninety-four guests were seated. A suitable badge was adopted by the committee, everybody being provided with a small souvenir chicken, which was worn during the evening. The view of the fact that Mr. Florence anticipates embarking in the poultry business. Following the luncheon an informal musical program was given. A beautiful sterling silver loving cup was given to Aaron Florence. Presentation was made by W. R. Hall.

MRS. JOHN E. WESLEY IS LAID TO REST

Funeral services for Mrs. John E. Wesley were held yesterday afternoon in the Third ward meeting house. Bishop R. W. Eardley was in charge. Among the speakers were Elijah Weller, John Y. Smith, L. J. Haddock, James Eardley and Mr. Moses of Ogden. A quartet composed of L. J. Haddock, J. Y. Smith, Mrs. Phenie Burnham and Miss Gussie Peterson rendered several hymns. Pall bearers were William Campbell, Bernard Augustine, Ernest Campbell, C. A. Nichols, Fred Jackson and J. D. Campbell. Interment was in City cemetery.

LYNDYL PROJECT SURE TO SUCCEED

Secretary of Land Board Says Auction Shows Plan Is Practical.

"While there were not as many people at the drawing as had been hoped for, it proved a success as a starter for this method of selling land in Utah, and I believe it is just the first step in bringing thousands of people here to get in early on the Utah lands," said Will H. Farnsworth, secretary of the state board of land commissioners, who was present Monday at the land drawing of the Sevier River Land & Water company at Lyndyl, Millard county.

"These same land men opened up the Twin Falls, Idaho, land six years ago, and they didn't have anything like the success of the drawing at Lyndyl. They had two or three people there the first time, then had another drawing, when about fifty went to the land, and at the third drawing all of the 140,000 acres of the company were sold. And the drawing at Lyndyl, Idaho they have not had much trouble in getting rid of the land. But it is the first time it has been tried here in Utah, and the showing I consider a good one."

"The land near Lyndyl is better for all purposes than that at Twin Falls. There is plenty of water, the farmers and fruit growers will have a good market in Salt Lake, only 118 miles away, and the railroad is right there. There were none of these advantages at Twin Falls."

GIRL PICKS OUT MAN WHO BROKE INTO HOME

Miss Viviane Smith Identifies Prisoner as Burglar Who Menaced Her.

Jimmission Gilroy, an ex-convict, who was arrested Monday night on suspicion, was identified yesterday afternoon as the burglar who attempted to enter the residence of G. K. Smith, 919 East First South street, at 8 o'clock Sunday night. He served six years for a Provo burglary, his sentence expiring late in 1908. He has been under the espionage of the detective department for nearly a month, while he was inhabiting dens in Commercial street.

Miss Viviane Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Smith was alone in her home Sunday night, when she heard a window being opened in the dining room, where a large quantity of silverware was stored. Opening the door leading into the dining room and turning on the lights, she saw the burglar half way through the window he had pried open. The burglar threatened her with denunciations and turned down the lights. She obeyed, but took a good look at him, and says she could never forget his face. A noise frightened him away before he got any booty.

Yesterday afternoon Miss Smith was taken to the city jail by 401st Street Horace Heath. Leading her to a cell where several prisoners were confined, she readily picked out Gilroy as the man who had attempted to enter the window of her home last Sunday night. When he saw the girl Gilroy attempted to turn his head from her. His face colored when he was ordered to stand erect, facing the cell bars.

A complaint against Gilroy, charging him with attempt at burglary, was filed yesterday afternoon. It bears the signature of Miss Viviane Smith.

MILITIAMEN'S STANDING PUBLISHED IN REPORT

In a report showing the comparative standing of the organizations of the National Guard of Utah for 1909, the First battery, field artillery, of Salt Lake stands at the head of the list with a general average of 55.47, with the signal corps second with 53.32. Company F is the third organization in the state, with an average of 50.69. The report has just been published by order of Adjutant General E. A. Wedgwood and will be interesting to guard members throughout the state.

LIQUOR BILL ON GRILL

Council Majority Confers on Measure of Royal Arch.

Members of the American party in the city council held a caucus in the office of Mayor John S. Bransford yesterday afternoon, when the proposed liquor ordinance of the Royal Arch was placed on the grill. The subject was for the purpose of taking some stand in regard to the proposed ordinance, drawn by the liquor interests. But practically nothing was done and it was decided to put the ordinance up to the council and municipal laws committee of the city council, who will take this matter up some night next week.

Martin Mulvey was at the caucus most of the time, but he heard that City Attorney H. J. Dinnely was coming down to talk the matter over, so he left, declaring the room was too small for both.
